This funds the highest priority of the Great Alaska Council Boy Scouts of America (GACBSA).

This funding will be matched by other funding stemming from HUD, businesses and families which multiplies the overall impact. This is the first of many phases in the project development.

Once completed, the Denali Alaska High Adventure Base will serve 8000 youth during the summer time season. In the off-season, the camp will be available to other community groups, businesses and non-profit organizations. The GACBSA envision these groups utilizing this new facility for business meetings, retreats, additional youth camps, events, receptions and much more.

The GACBSA plans on beginning their operation next year, running 500 youth through the program while continuing to expand the number of youth served as they progress through the construction process.
